The race will start at midnight, Friday, September 4 and is expected to finish in Oscoda some time the next afternoon.

Those already entered are Steve Kolond of Tawas City and Larry Kindell of Mclvor, E. F. Sowers, M. D. of Benton Harbor, and George Belmore of Allamaker, Ontario and Charles Robertson and Tom Bullen, both of Clarkson.

Merle Klein and Jack Kent of Atlanta, Marion Ferris and Meritt Vorton of Oshkosh, Delbert Case and Bob Smoek of Grayling, Eugene Hoppe of Mt. Drawings for starting positions will be held at noon on Thursday, August 27 at the Bay City County Club. A luncheon is being sponsored by EMTA for the affair.

The canoes will be marked this year in a manner in which they can be identified from the air and the news sent by radio to short wave radio "Ham" operators who will again follow the race on its course reporting the progress all during the run.

It is planned to have a progress chart at the Grayling Sportsmen's Club building near the scene of the race start.

Although not entered as yet, Don Feldhauser of Grayling and Bernard Fowler of Vanderbilt are spotted as favorites to cop this year's prize due to their fine showing last year. Feldhauser-Fowler team were but 6 minutes behind them.

Another team that will be a definite threat is the Eugene Roy-Ralph Sawyer team of Oscoda who won the Sturgeon River race this year and have had experience in Michigan's top canoe classic, the AuSable River marathon.

Governor Reviews 46th Michigan Guard Division

Citizen Soldiers of Iron Fist Division Start Homeward Trek Saturday

After reaching the high point of their two weeks field training, over 8,000 officers and men of Michigan's 46th "Iron Fist" Division are winding up their last few days training and looking forward to their movement home Saturday after being reviewed by their Commander-in-Chief, Governor G. Mennen Williams last Saturday.

It marked the fifth time Williams has been on hand for the annual Governor's Day review - more times than any other Michigan governor.

After the review, Williams presented the Maj. Gen. Earl R. Stewart medal to M/Sgt. Robert F. Paulson, 24, a member of the all-Detroit 425th Infantry Regiment's Heavy Mortar Co. Paulson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paulson of Detroit. Mrs. Paulson, the former Matilda Cook was formerly a Grayling resident when her father operated the green house here.

Paulson, a claims adjuster for a steel company and a member of the guard for three years, was selected by a panel of judges as the outstanding Michigan National Guardsman of 1953.

SFC Dean Brandon, of Lansing, and SFC William J. Stansell, 20, of Coldwater, tied for second place. Third place went to Sgt. Bobby Waddle, a member of Flint's 125th regiment.

Nearly 10,000 civilians visited Camp Grayling during the day to watch the review and tour the 93,000-acre military installation.

Williams arrived by air from Mackinac Island, where he is vacationing. Upon arrival, he watched an armored review staged by the 2468th Tank battalion whose members are from Dowagiac, Three Rivers, Sturgis, Niles, South Haven, and Detroit and then went to Grayling Air base to inspect Air Guardsmen training there.

Members of Albion's Battery C of the 943rd Artillery battalion fired a 15-gun salute when Williams returned to Camp Grayling to watch the review.

Following the parade, the governor presented the Eisenhower award to Battery C of the 943rd for achieving 100 percent of its authorized strength and 90 percent attendance at all training meetings during the year.

Williams also met with the state military board to discuss a successor for Maj. Gen. Ralph Loveland, of Ann Arbor, commander of the Michigan National Guard's 46th division, who will retire next January.

The Governor and his wife and Major General Loveland and his staff and wives were guests of the 425th Infantry Regiment for a turkey dinner after which the party progressed to the Officers Club for the Governor's Reception.

Sunday, Governor Williams spoke at the annual Memorial Services held on Division Hill in just about perfect weather. The annual service is held in memory of Michigan soldiers who gave their lives in battle for their country.

John Jackson, Richard Dunham, Frank Ludemann and George McEvers are returning as seniors with Monte Malonen the lone returning junior and there are three returning sophomores, Lloyd Failing, Jim Parkinson and Gary Worden.

Glen Erwall holds down the honors of being the heaviest man on the squad at 178 pounds and Bill Martin on the other end of the weight chart at an even 100 pounds.

Every position on the team is wide open, Coach Allen said, because a lot of shifting in the line up is expected before the opening game. The first game will be under the lights at Gaylord on September 17th.

Plans are being made by Coach Allen to hold a football clinic in the high school gym on the evening of September 11th with an attempt to clarify some of the rules and to display equipment and training devices along with an explanation of the system used. Early plans call for the serving of refreshments on that evening.

IF YOU'VE BUILT a new home recently—or are in the midst of doing so now—you know how dependent building is on motor transport.

From the moment the big excavating shovel arrives at the vacant lot astride a low-bed truck-trailer to dig the hole for your basement, it's a steady procession of trucks of one kind or another until the house is ready for occupancy.

Cement blocks, sand, steel, lumber, roofing, brick, plumbing, hardware, paint—everything that goes into the building of your home has to get to the site in motor trucks.

Then, when you arrive at the point where you're ready to move in, you call on motor transport again to transport your household furnishings for you.

If you've got it, a truck brought it!

Same Old Arguments . . .

Once again, a bill to establish compulsory government health insurance, and to take other steps which would give government the whip-hand over our entire medical system, has been introduced in Congress. And, once again, the proponents of this measure (which almost everyone believes would be but a prelude to socialized medicine) argue that it is necessary because the people have no protection against the financial shock of illness, and that the cost of medical care is an insuperable burden.

Two facts cast an illuminating light on these hoary arguments.

Fact one is that more than 90,000,000 Americans now voluntarily carry some form of hospital, surgical and medical insurance—and this huge figure does not include the legions covered by industrial insurance, veterans' benefits, and local, state and federal custodial programs. The growth of these voluntary plans is unrivaled in the whole broad history of insurance.

Fact two is that, according to figures gathered for the Federal Reserve Board by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, 80 per cent of American families have no medical debt at all; 17 per cent have debts ranging from $2 to $200, and only three per cent have debts in excess of $200.

Much remains to be done to improve medical care—and it is being done, in a sound and orderly manner. No great nation can point to achievements in this field which are equal to ours. Certainly, the small percentage of indigents can be adequately helped without setting up a compulsory system which would cost untold billions a year to operate—and which would undermine and eventually destroy free, progressive medicine.

In the last half century the death rate from tuberculosis has been cut in half. Not too many years ago, several members of one family often died of this disease. At that time, people thought that TB was inherited. But this is not true. It is spread by germs. Often the patient handled and prepared food also using a common cup for drinking and shared the same bed with a healthy member. The symptoms of an advanced case of this disease are loss of appetite, weight and strength, a persistent cough and fever. By the patient coughing and sneezing, the disease is transmitted to those with whom he or she is in contact. TB may attack any part of the body by most frequently it invades the lungs. In Michigan, two-thirds of all deaths from TB are men forty years old and over. This sneaky disease respects neither race, age or sex. But TB, taken early can be cured easily and quickly. Don't let TB rob you and your loved ones of your good health. There is going to be a free chest x-ray unit at the Grayling Bottling Company from noon until 8 p. m. tomorrow. Surely you can spare the time. It only takes a few minutes. Remember about a quarter-million people in the U. S. have TB and don't know it. Only about one in a thousand x-rays show any signs of TB.

We can fill up on just about any kind of food and satisfy our hunger, but it does not go all the way. Drink more milk and feel the difference. Ask for Crawford County produced milk at Hunter's AuSable Dairy in Grayling.

Mary Park Wed In Mt. Pleasant

Of interest here is news of the Saturday marriage of Miss Mary Virginia Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Park, of Mt. Pleasant, and Grayling, and Lawrence Porter Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Jackson of Cornuna.

Vows were exchanged in an 8 o'clock ceremony solemnized by the Rev. J. Kenneth Cutler at the First Presbyterian church, Mt. Pleasant. About 150 guests witnessed the rites.

A large bouquet of white gladioli and candelabra entwined with branches of huckleberry decorated the altar and huckleberry green were also used throughout the church. White tapers were placed in the windows and with large blue satin bows were used to decorate the aisle pews.

Mary's gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar edged with a tiny band of satin and a molded bodice with self-covered buttons. Long tapered sleeves ended in waistpoints and the floor length skirt featured a center back panel of Chantilly lace cascading to a cathedral length train.

Her illusion fingertip veil of family lace was once worn by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard E. Park, of Denver, Colo., and she carried white gladioli and white rosebuds with stephanotis and ivy streamers. Her pearls were a gift of the bridegroom. Mrs. Park was matron of honor and Miss Lois Ford, of Mt. Pleasant and Miss Maureen Eagle, of Bay City, were bridesmaids.

The attendants were gowned in identical Wedgewood-blue nylon lace frocks with lace jackets, three-quarter length sleeves and nylon net floor length skirts. Matching blue net and lace picture hats and bouquets of yellow gladioli blossoms tied with blue ribbons completed their outfits.

The bridegroom's father acted as best man and Dr. Richard Park, Fred Park, another brother of the bride, and Woodward C. Smith, of Mt. Pleasant seated guests from Western Springs, Ill., Toledo, Ohio, Detroit, Pontiac, Jackson, Reading, Eaton Rapids, Owosso and Bay City.

Mrs. Norman C. Dietz, vocalist, was accompanied by Bernard E. Stone.

Mrs. Park greeted guests at a reception at St. John's Episcopal Parish house wearing a floor length rose chiffon over taffeta dress styled with a lace jacket. Mrs. Jackson chose a floor length gown of green Chantilly lace.

When the couple left on a week's wedding trip through Northern Michigan and three days at Niagara Falls Mary changed to a beige wool suit with a bolero top and brown and white accessories. After September 1 they will reside in Ann Arbor where he will attend the University of Michigan.

Mary and her husband were graduated from Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Shoots For Record In August Sales

Recent reports in automotive trade circles that the market is stiffening and that many dealers are in for rough times brought a challenge by the local Ford dealer to "set an all-time high in selling for August."

All Ford dealers sent in their previous selling records for the month of August to the District Sales Office in Detroit with the assertion that they will top those figures this August.

Fred C. Welsh, partner of Welsh Motor Sales, said that they base their optimism upon the general prosperity of the nation which is enjoying full employment and high wages, plus the confidence they have in old-fashioned selling techniques.

"The American salesman is the greatest shot in the arm to a so-called 'stiffened' market," Mr. Welsh said. "A little door bell ringing, which some of us may have forgotten in the postwar years of short supply, will soon alleviate any pessimism," he said.

Set 1 Day Any Deer Season

Michigan's special any deer season is slated from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 1 this fall, with hunting restricted to the area in the lower peninsula north of the east-west route M-55, the conservation department announces.

Also, the conservation commission, meeting in its August session at Higgins Lake training school recently, authorized the regular statewide November 15-30 firearm season on legal bucks, the October 1 - November 5 statewide archery season and the cently moved into a home on the county road. They were presented with a gift from the group.

Mrs. Don C. Lawless of Vermilion, Ohio, and Mrs. George Lang of Toledo, were week end visitors at the home of W. F. Lemke at Lake Margrethe.

Beaver Creek Plans Old Timers Picnic

special Allean county season. No opposition to further special seasons developed at the meeting, though several persons discussed last year's kill and made minor recommendations for the coming years.

A battery of game experts took nearly an hour during the meeting to present a wealth of material gleaned from the 1952 deer seasons. The information served as a guide in plans for the scheduled seasons this fall.

Commissioners heard detailed summaries of the firearm, special archery and Allean county seasons during the lengthy presentation. Totals for the state showed that nearly half a million hunters took about 105,000 deer from Michigan's wilds last fall.

Enough were taken in most areas between routes M-20 and M-55 last year so that a special season there was thought unnecessary this fall. Winter deer food growth, long overcast, have even shown signs of recovery in some of the areas.

But north of M-55, game men want a further reduction of the lower peninsula herd, saying its size there is still out of proportion with available winter food supplies.

They say the one-day season barring bad hunting weather should do the job for this year.

The commission also passed a ruling that will stop the sale of deer hunting licenses at 7 p. m. November 30, the rule is designed to lessen law violations, but is contingent upon the attorney general's opinion of its legality.

Keeps its value better than any other car!

Used car dealers report that

Fords return more of their original cost than any other car—and there are 41 reasons why:

Take power. Ford's two high-compression engines are real leaders in their class. Ford's the only car in the low-price field to offer you the smooth power of a V-8 engine. And no other car in any field has so modern a Six.

Take build. Ford's one-piece Crestmark body gives you style-setting beauty with rugged "build" underneath. Where many other cars are bolted, Ford's are welded built-tight to keep out rust-causing weather and dirt.

Take visibility. Ford gives you the "all-around" view you need in today's fast-moving traffic. A curved one-piece windshield, carwide rear window and large "picture windows" all around make sure you have Full-Circle visibility.

Take ride. Ford's wonderful, new ride reduces front end road shock up to 80%. And Ford's new, more responsive spring and shock absorber action gives you the comfortable easy ride you want without gas-eating extra weight.

Take drives. Only Ford in its field gives you a choice of a completely automatic drive. Fordomatic, the finest, most versatile automatic you can buy... fuel-saving Overdrive... or easy-shifting Conventional Drive.

Take savings. Ford's economy-minded Automatic Power Pilot saves you money on every gallon of gas. It automatically adjusts carburetion, ignition and combustion to make every drop of gas ("regular" at that) work its heart out.

American Bantam Car May Build Grayling - Tested Snow Plow

BUTLER, Pa. — American Bantam Car Company engineers are redesigning the world's largest and fastest rotary snow plow for the U. S. Army Engineers with a view to producing the huge machines in Butler, Pa.

Capt. Raymond E. Jones, general manager of the Butler Bantam plant, said contracts call for delivery of the re-engineered and completed snow removal machine to the Army Engineers by Dec. 1.

If the improved model is approved for production, the Bantam firm hopes to contract to complete a number of the large-type machines for the armed forces to use to clear snowbound Arctic air strips.

The 30-ton plow, in an experimental test, reported in Michigan, ate its way at 18 miles an hour through a nine to 11 inch snowfall on the Grayling National Guard Airport, cutting a 32-foot swath with each pass and throwing the snow a distance of 800 feet at a rate of 38,000 cubic feet of snow per minute.

The design of the snow plow is an entirely new principle developed to throw snow farther and faster than heretofore possible. Butler Bantam plant engineers are now working under contract in two smaller motorized snow plows for the Navy Department, Bureau of Yards and Docks.

These smaller three-ton machines, dwarfed alongside the large-scale model, are to be submitted after re-engineering and manufacture by Dec. 1. Approval of design could mean a continuing contract of production of the smaller machines for a period of years. The smaller machines are designed to fit on the front of a standard highway truck. Rotor blades used for churning the snow can be interchanged with brushes to convert the machines into street cleaners.

Production of the smaller machines would open a civilian field for sale to municipalities far in excess of government needs and this possibility has already been explored.

Capt. Jones, a naval captain on inactive duty after 45 years of Navy service, said he is not permitted at this time to disclose details of costs involved and the possible amount of the anticipated orders.

"The work we have lined up at this time, however, looks very promising. Final planning is yet to be completed," he said.

The large snow plow has a 2,500 horsepower motor as the controlling power unit, a one-man control compartment, eight large dual wheels and two single wheels. It is approximately 45 feet long and completely tops a regulation railroad flatcar.

Two large blades in the front fold the snow into a rotor eight feet in diameter and the churned snow and ice is then expelled from a three-foot exhaust chute, throwing snow to either side.

The machine, shipped from the Grayling Service Proving Ground in Michigan to the Bantam yards, is nine feet wide and about 15 feet high.

A squad of engineers at Bantam is working on the engineering details incident to perfecting the machines to desired specifications.

Initial improvements on the smaller models will be completed within a month, it was estimated and plans call for completing the re-engineering of the larger model by the middle of September.

New Library Grants Aid Local Services

Mrs. Loretta D. Eyan, Michigan State Librarian and Secretary, State Board of Libraries, has announced that by action of the 1953 legislature, new library grants will soon be available to bring more books and information services to more people of Michigan and to encourage the growth and extension of local public library services. This new public library development fund will total approximately $50,000 for the year 1953-54. It is a portion of the $382,000 for state aid to public libraries appropriated by the 1953 legislature.

More than one-eighth of Michigan citizens, 843,807 people to be exact, are now without direct access to a locally supported public library. This new program of grants is expected to increase the effectiveness of present libraries and to help them extend their facilities to more residents of rural and urban areas, both children and adults.

Mrs. Eyan urged the trustees of public libraries to submit applications for grants from this fund to initiate plans which will stimulate the creation of county or regional libraries or encourage contractual or federated library services. "Citizens of a democracy need opportunities for self-education at all times," Mrs. Eyan added. "The complexities of life today make the need an urgent one. Books and libraries play an indispensable part in keeping our citizens informed. We must work to make them available to everyone."
